The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schapel et al in view of Brand.

Schapel et teach the production of gel compositions comprising the reaction product of polyisocyanates and polyols as claimed instantly. The further incorporation of metal oxides such as titanium dioxide is taught at column 7, lines 3-33. The reference fails to explicitly recite the use of pyrogenic metal oxides.

The reference to Brand teaches anti-yellowing properties flowing from the incorporation of specific pyrogenic titanium dioxides to plastic materials.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate the pyrogenic titanium dioxide of the Brand reference to the gels of the primary reference when anti-yellowing properties were desired.
